

A Call to Action

“The call to action is bigger than a request for a ramp, a Braille hymnal or a fragrance -free zone. The call to action is about people - all people. What we hope you see in these stories is the collective need for every Unitarian Universalist to recognize and act on the knowledge that when we exclude one person, we exclude a portion of who we are; and when we join in the transformation within each and every UU community, the words 'welcoming to all' will ring true for all.”

“A Call to Action” is a video produced by the UUA Accessibilities Committee! The video showcases four Unitarian Universalist congregations as they each moved through efforts to increase accessibilities both physically and theologically. You may have seen this 14 minute video at General Assembly 2003 in Boston at the Accessibilities Committee booth.

We certainly hope that you will take time to view the video and promote its use within your district. Each district office has a copy of the video for your use.
